

Why Hasn't Legality of This Matter Been Challenged Before?

HOW CLOSE we came to political suppression of news during the "crisis" days of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's regime is illustrated by an editorial this week in our trade paper, Editor & Publisher, New York:

"There is a movement afoot to correct an error made by congress 10 years ago. It must be successful."

"Looking back on it now, it seems impossible that so great a veil of secrecy could have been imposed without a loud protest from the press and public. But apparently it was accepted then and not until recent months have newspapermen become fully aware of its implications."

"We refer to the rule inserted into the Social Security Act in 1939 prohibiting the press or public from inspecting state welfare payrolls on penalty of sacrificing federal aid and giving states until 1941 to make their laws conform. Here is suppression by the federal government of information concerning the expenditure of more than 2 billion dollars of tax monies annually. And there is no area of public expenditures that is more susceptible to manipulation and pressure for political purposes."

"The official excuse for the censorship at the time it was imposed was 'to prevent use of such information for political and commercial purposes...' and to protect recipients from humiliation and exploitation." It has since developed that the secrecy has abetted the use of this money — not the information — for political purposes. "It is almost inconceivable that adoption of this rule was not met by an outraged cry from press and public. However, in the time of the times it obviously was thought more necessary to protect the comparatively few relief recipients than it was to protect the taxpayers."

SO MUCH FOR the Editor & Publisher article. What does it mean for Arkansas and Hope? Well, you wake up to the following facts:

That it was charged in the recent legislature Arkansas welfare rolls are double those of other states.

And there are rumors about undeserving folks being on the charity roles from Hempstead and other southwest Arkansas counties.

But you are forbidden to learn the facts. State law prohibits inspection of the welfare lists — because federal law says if a state does permit such inspection it automatically loses federal aid for welfare.

This was the federal enactment of 1939. It was an act of dictatorship — and it got by all of us.

It was an act of dictatorship because it obviously had but one true purpose — to enable the Washington politicians to enlarge and fortify their political power by secretly leading the charity lists with votes and defying the people and the press to learn enough facts to support an outcry.

We publish the names of delinquent taxpayers.

But it is illegal — the politicians say — to publish the names of persons fraudulently on the welfare rolls.

A long time ago a great journalist, Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the old New York World, warned his fellow Americans against "predatory plutocracy and predatory poverty."

Well, we have reached the gate that leads to predatory poverty — when the fraudulent poor sell their votes in secret to scheming politicians.

Is there the law — or only a scrap of paper?

We'll find out.

Congressmen and senators will be held to account for their votes on the bill to repeal that outrageous "no publication" clause.

Youth Council
Plans County
Program

The Hempstead County Chapter of the Arkansas Council on Children and Youth under the leadership of Horace Hubbard, Chairman, met in the Chamber of Commerce office Tuesday afternoon at 4 p. m. to discuss ways and means of carrying out the work of the Council in the county.

The Council is composed of seven committees and chairmen of these were designated at this meeting as follows:

Religion, Rev. S. A. Whitlow; Child Labor, Teddy Jones; Juvenile Delinquency, Royce Weisenberger; Health Services, Mrs. Inez Turner; Families and Their Dwellings, T. C. Thornton; Special Welfare Services, Mrs. J. W. Jones; and Recreation, Fred Robertson.

As this is a county-wide organization, chairmen of the various committees will pick their members from all over the county this week. Another meeting will be held Wednesday, March 21, at which time a list of names for each committee will be presented by the chairmen.

The main purpose of the Council is to survey the county and find problems facing young people and attempt to work out possible solutions.

Besides the chairmen, several civic clubs were represented at the meeting. Everyone interested in the welfare of our youth is cordially invited to take a part in the council.

VFW Fund for Cancer Has Become Hope for Children
Suffering From the Disease

The cancer research fund established by the Ladies Aux. to the V. F. W. in 1947, now has become the gift of hope for children suffering from cancer.

This Gift of Hope, in the form of cortisone, is being used extensively by the Children's Hospital of Michigan, located in Detroit. In June of 1950, this hospital received $5,000.00 for the purchase of cortisone, with this fund later being upped to $15,000.00. The $5,000 gift was a direct result of an article written by Dr. William Lutz which appeared in the Detroit News. Dr. Lutz cited cases of children's eyesight being restored, of "three youngsters wasting away with rheumatic fever regaining their health; of nine victims of leukemia, waiting death, given a new lease on life; of three children with overwhelming infection, which kills or leads to meningitis, literally brought back from the dead and cured" as the result of research conducted on a meager grant of $4,500 with which the Children's Hospital had bought the costly drug, cortisone. The story closed with the statement that "it is now apparent that we can save lives and cure and prevent diseases but that the continuation of this form of treatment depends on available money."

The phrase "depends on available money" and the fact that this work would fit into the children's health program of the Ladies Aux. of V. F. W. led Mrs. Joseph Mann to investigate the Hospital and recommend to the Auxiliary's National Advisory Council, that this hospital be aided. Mrs. Mann at that time being the Nat. Cancer chairman of the V. F. W. Aux. The National Council acted immediately with the first check of $5,000 being presented to Miss Mildred Reese, Administrator of the Children's Hospital of Mich., who commented that "The Aux. must have been sent to them by God."

Cooperative
Plan Discussed
at Farm Meet

Several hundred Hempstead County farm folks heard Clifford L. Smith, general manager of the Arkansas Farmers Association, explain the farmers cooperative programs now operating in 50 Arkansas counties. The meeting got underway at 10 a. m. today at Hope City Hall.

Mr. Smith, a former agent for Hempstead, was brought here through efforts of the Hempstead County Farm Bureau which is headed by Moss Rowe.

He explained that cooperatives should continue their operation strictly to the fields of farmers working together to develop agriculture through increased production, better quality, processing and marketing.

Examples of the program and developments made by co-ops were cited at length and cover phase of agriculture from saving money on feed, seed, fertilizer, insecticides and other farm supplies to marketing products grown at the highest possible price.

In practically every field, farm products grown in Arkansas are shipped to other states developed and processed and shipped back to Arkansas cities to be sold, Mr. Smith said.

"Through cooperatives these products need never leave home except in event of overproduction for local use. Farm leadership is concentrating on a program of cooperatives to develop quality, control, processing and marketing outlets. This is a long range program and results will not be seen for several years but will eventually lead to better Arkansas Agriculture," Mr. Smith concluded.

Meets Planned to Explain
Farm Program

In signing up in the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program, farmers of Hempstead county should fit conservation practices to the high level production called for to meet defense needs, says Earl Martindale, chairman of the county PMA committee.

ACP, he explains, provides farmers with an effective means of increasing per acre yields and at the same time protecting the future productivity of the land. He points to the tremendous increase in production during World War II as evidence of the effectiveness of the nation's efforts to step up farm production.

"Farm by farm and acre by acre, conservation practices not only protect the soil from erosion and depletion but they build up the land's capacity to produce."

The chairman urges that when a farmer sits down with his PMA committee to plan the conservation practices to be carried out under the 1951 ACP he at the same time should go over the "Production Guides" to see which crops he can produce in line with the guides. Then he should fit his ACP conservation practices into that pattern of production. This, says the chairman, is in line with the statement of the Secretary of Agriculture when he announced the National Production Guides for 1951: "Production guides are designed to help farmers plan their crops in line with the over-all needs — turning out the highest possible balanced production this year, and at the same time protecting their resources for the future." The Agricultural Conservation Program will help farmers do just that, Mr. Martindale said.

A series of community meetings are currently being held at various places over the county for the purposes of explaining the 1951 Agricultural Conservation Program and the Federal Crop Insurance Program. Farmers are urged to check the date of the meeting in the community most convenient to them and make arrangements to attend if possible. A schedule of the meetings are as follows: Baird's Chapel, 7 p. m. Wednesday, March 14; St. Paul's Church Bldg., 7 p. m. Thursday, March 15; and Fulton, Odom's Store, 7 p. m. Friday, March 16.

Discovered in Arkansas

Little Rock, March 14 — (AP) — Discovery of columbium, a rare and strategic metal, in Arkansas was announced today.

Wayne C. Fletcher, executive director of the Arkansas resources and development commission, said samples of the metal were taken on land owned by Billy C. Wilson, Hot Spring county lumberman. That is in south central Arkansas.

Columbium has been used in the manufacture of stainless steel. Fletcher said the metal is needed for the development of jet engines and similar high temperature equipment.

Norman F. Williams, director of the R and D Geology division, said a ton of columbium ore concentrate sells for about $700. He said the value of the Arkansas deposit cannot be estimated at this time.

Williams said that columbium samples were discovered in an area known to contain some radio active materials. These were not identified.

He said that columbium was first discovered in ore samples in 1801. He added that new demands for the metal have resulted in reworking of mine waste in Africa in an effort to recover additional columbium.

Fletcher said samples of minerals taken from the Magnet Cove area, near Malvern, will be re-examined for possible columbium content.

Hope Merchants to Attend OPS
Meet Friday

The Office of Price Stabilization is holding an open meeting to explain the provisions of regulation 7 at the Clark county courthouse, Arkadelphia, at 7:30 p. m., Friday, March 16.

Representatives of the state office in Little Rock will attend. This meeting does not pertain to food. The food regulation is expected from Washington, D. C. soon. Hope merchants are invited to attend the Arkadelphia meeting.

Retail merchants must file pricing charts with the state office by March 29. If a retail merchant does not get an acknowledgment by April 28 he may not sell any more goods. Copies of regulation 7 are available to merchants at the Hope Chamber of Commerce office.

HORACE HEIDT

The mastermind of the original youth opportunity program which will be in Hope Thursday night, March 15, at the Coliseum, is Horace Heidt who is familiar to radio audiences throughout the world. Always the Heidt show is sponsored by some local organization and in this way part of the receipts from the show benefit some youth project or a charitable cause.

Heidt's slogan is, "Be Better Than the Boys Than to Mend Men," and all his efforts are in the direction of helping America's youth. This is evidenced by the countless number of young talent throughout the U. S. which has benefited from his shows and programs.

The facts concerning the gas system are simply:

The Louisiana Nevada Transit Co., Mr. W. A. Delaney, president, has been selling gas to the residents of Oakhaven and others the last three years through approximately 5 miles of 8 inch gas line costing originally $500,000, on rates set by the gas company without paying one red cent for the use of the gas system to the Hope Development Corporation.

The present owners of this gas system do not feel that they can continue to furnish the gas system of charge any longer any more than a resident of Oakhaven will furnish his home rent free or Mr. Delaney his gas at no charge.

That it is Mr. Delaney's letter, the present amount being used by the Louisiana Nevada Transit company, is so small that the gas company cannot service this area, the residents in Oakhaven will be really alarmed.

The final disposition of the gas system is not known. Mr. Delaney has indicated it may not insure a permanent supply of gas at present rates being charged.

The present owners are experienced gas line operators. Delaney is a multi-millionaire and gas man, well informed and experienced in all matters pertaining to gas systems, both in operation and acquiring them.

His statement that the line is deep that it cannot be profitably salvaged evidently does not mean much of an impression on those who are anxious to acquire the line.

Since this matter has become a public interest in this year and since we have considerable free publicity, considering we would like to see a gas system for sale, to a price if the line is left in place at salvage value.

Salvage value is, we believe, fair market value of any asset. It is to the interest of everyone concerned to have the gas line in place. Position on
SPG Gas Line

The following statement was issued today by the Hope Development Corporation in regard to the Proving Ground gas line:

"This is intended to clarify present status of the gas system in the Proving Ground area in Hope that it may be of some assistance to all parties concerned towards permanent and satisfactory settlement of the matter."

Unfortunately the writer of the news article in Monday's issue of the Hope Star was evidently not personally and personally placed on W. A. Delaney's letter to the Louisiana Nevada Transit Co. gas customers.

Find he contacted Hope Development Corporation, owner of the system, his news article. He have reported that the suggestion on the sale of the gas system, been going on over a period of three years, and not 30 days, as the gas line had been offered sale in place to Mr. Delaney to him only.

Management
Says No to
New Wage Plan

Washington, March 14 — (AP) — Management representatives were reported today to have said "no" to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston's compromise plan for reshaping the wage stabilization board as a dispute-handling agency.

A 20-man delegation representing the National Association of Manufacturers, U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and business advisory council of the commerce department called on Johnston this morning. The group agreed to allow the stabilizer to convey their stand to top labor union leaders this afternoon before making the reply public.

However persons in a position to know said it was a turn down. A news conference was scheduled for 3:30 p. m. CST at the manufacturers' headquarters to explain the management's attitude on the question of rebuilding the defunct wage stabilization board.

By ARTHUR EDSON
(For Hal Boyle)

Washington, March 14 — (AP) — The senator sits there, peering over the glasses resting on the tip of his nose. His black string tie is slightly askew, his hand fondles a gavel.

Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), the man with the sharpest tongue on Capitol Hill, is holding court. As chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Connally has the big job of getting the senate to go along with the administration's foreign policies.

He presided over the joint hearing held by his committee and the senate armed services committee to listen to testimony on what course this country should follow in sending troops abroad.

This was the great hearing which followed and accompanied the great debate.

From it the senate got plenty of big league advice, from both the pro and the con leagues.

Browder Freed of Contempt Charge

Washington, March 14 — (AP)—Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts today acquitted Earl Browder of a contempt of Congress charge.

Browder is the former No. 1 Communist in this country. He was accused of refusing to answer questions at a Senate foreign relations subcommittee hearing on Communism in government.

Judge Letts held that the committee failed to direct Browder to answer questions over his objections and explanations.

The judge's ruling ended Browder's trial and he walked out of the courtroom a free man. Thus, he had escaped going to jail for a fourth time.

Browder testified before the subcommittee last April 27 during an investigation of charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the state department was infested with Communists.

Specifically, he was accused of not answering 18 questions put to him by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Ia.), a member of the committee.

Judge Letts said a search of the record did not disclose any instance in which the committee or the chairman, former Senator Tydings (D-Md.) overruled objection by Browder to answering questions.

The judge remarked that Browder answered freely 140 to 150 questions "with no attempt to evade the consequences of information imparted."

Judge Letts also said that there was nothing to indicate that Browder's objections and explanations were not acceptable.

He said "simple justice and fairness" required that Browder be told that answers were demanded.

The judge recalled that Browder at one point, in not answer a question, said: "If you are going to make an issue of this let's have it out. This judge added that the committee did not announce its conclusions as to the merits of Browder's objection.

Truman Acts to Bring Labor Back

Key West, Fla., March 14 (AP)—President Truman today directed two separate moves to bring organized labor back into the mobilization program.

They involved finding a formula for revising the wage stabilization act, which union leaders walked out on in a major break with the administration and the rewriting of the defense production act, under which the whole mobilization program operates.

Defense Mobilization Director Wilson's office is drafting a series of proposed changes in the defense production act. The President's office is submitting them to Congress in a message around April 1.

The President told a recent news conference in Washington that Wilson had been assigned the task of preparing amendments tightening administration emergency authority for price and wage controls.

Leaders of organized labor have been insisting upon more vigorous controls.

as an agency handling limited list of disputes.

Organized labor leaders were reported to regard the compromise favorably. It would tend toward the type of wage board used in World War II. That board handled all types of wage disputes.

Meanwhile, government officials said President Truman will send to Congress by April 1 a new basic mobilization bill. It is expected to contain revised proposals for increasing production, bringing prices and wages under control, and setting up a still rent control program. The present mobilization law expires June 30. It does not cover rents.

The chamber of commerce, which had been reported earlier to be favorable to the plan for reorganizing the wage board said it would issue a statement today.

But the industry spokesmen, at meetings yesterday and last night, balked at setting up a board along the line proposed by Johnston with labor backing.

Jedd in East Germany said the quake was one of the strongest ever registered there. But he ruled out the possibility of an explosion. He did not give any reasons for this view.

The earth trembled and shook about six seconds. Shudders of diminishing violence continued to be recorded in Stuttgart for 15 minutes. The quake was accompanied by a great wind blast which rattled windows and shook buildings. No noticeable damage was reported anywhere.

Geophysicists, the scientists who study earth movements, were unable to locate the center of the quake. One said it was either in the East mountains of West Germany or in Soviet occupied Thüringen.

An official of the Göttingen Geophysical Institute said it was the largest tremor ever recorded in the region.

High Telephone Rates Continue

Little Rock, March 14 — (AP)—Until the courts decide the case, Arkansas customers of Southwest Bell Telephone company are going to keep on paying the full amount of the higher rates the company instituted last September.

The Arkansas public service commission said the company could increase its rates some $3,000,000 a year instead of the $4,000,000 the company proposed. And the commission ordered the company to refund to subscribers the difference between the higher rates and the lower rates.

controls over prices. The major tumbling block is a provision in the defense production act prohibiting any ceilings in food prices unless they go above an arbitrary parity.

Administration sources have been non-committal on whether Mr. Truman will seek to get around that formula. Mr. Truman hasn't gone beyond saying he will do whatever is necessary to keep prices down in the emergency.

Any move to control food prices below the parity level would mean bitter opposition from farm state senators and representatives.

LR Red Cross Center Proposed

Little Rock, March 14 — (AP)—The American Red Cross has announced it will spend about $150,000 this year to establish a regional center here to provide free blood to civilians for the first time in Arkansas history. A. Walton Litz, chairman of the blood center committee, said the center will be built in about nine months.

Weekly deliveries of blood will be made to hospitals throughout the state, Litz said.

Grand Jury to Air Vote in Legislature

Little Rock, March 14 — (AP) — The Pulaski county grand jury will look into alleged tampering with the record of a vote in the Arkansas legislature.

Foreman Jack Pickens of Little Rock directed a committee of the grand jury to meet at 2 p. m. today to determine if a full investigation should be made.

Pickens stepped into the picture after a legislative committee reported yesterday that the house vote on an emergency clause for the administration's sponsored state purchasing bill had been "tampered with."

The law to liberalize state purchasing was passed by the house March 5. A vote on an emergency clause — to make the measure effective immediately upon being signed by the governor — was taken. At the time, it was announced that the clause had failed by seven votes.

Monday, however, the house journal showed that the clause had been approved.

Rep. Jack Clark of Texarkana immediately ordered an investigation by his house journal committee.

After receiving reports from several representatives that they had voted against the clause — instead of for it, as the journal showed — the committee announced that the vote had been tampered with and that the clause had been defeated.

"What amazed me," said House Speaker James R. Campbell of Hot Springs, "is what a crude job it was."

Campbell displayed records that contained erasures and markings.

Foreman Pickens said the grand jury's law enforcement committee, which will make the preliminary investigation, will be asked to report within a week.

What makes the emergency clause so important in this case is that opponents to the purchasing law want to refer it to a vote at the next general election. If there is an emergency clause on the act, more signatures will be necessary on petitions to submit the measure to the voters.

"WING THING" BEATS DARIUS GREEN—Rolo Ewers, wealthy La Junta, Colo., inventor, realized a 50-year dream when he flew his nylon-and-spruce "wing" a distance of 150 yards at an altitude of 30 feet, all under the power of his own muscles. The 30-foot wing—built for $100—gets its power when the pilot bounces on a sponge rubber cross below the "cockpit." Said Ewers after his flight, which was his first trip off the ground in "any kind of flying machine": "I don't care what the world thinks. We've done it, that's all."

Labor Agrees to New Wage Setup

Washington, March 14 — (AP) — Labor's top council has reportedly agreed upon the makeup and powers of a new wage stabilization board, opening the way — if industry agrees — to mending a breach that seriously threatened the defense mobilization effort.

Meanwhile, officials said President Truman will send congress by April 1 a new, basic mobilization bill expected to contain revised proposals for increasing production, bringing prices and wages under control, and a stiff rent control program. The present mobilization law expires June 30. It does not cover rents.

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods told newsmen mobilization's top command has agreed to a rent control program broader and stronger in some respects than in World War Two.

Simultaneously with these developments yesterday, Price Stabilizer Michael V. Disalle said in a Philadelphia speech that "we have flagged the inflation price express and slowed its speed from 75 to 15 miles an hour."

This, Disalle said, means there is every reason to believe "we will achieve stability of prices a great deal sooner than we originally expected."

The vitally important compromise aimed at wooing labor leaders back to administrative collaboration in the mobilization effort was described by an informed source as:

A proposal to create a new wage stabilization board with 18, instead of the present nine, members; giving the board authority to decide labor disputes arising from its own "policy decisions" disputes certified "national emergency" by the President, and disagreements outside the wage field when all parties approve calling on the wage board for a decision.

The source who reported the compromise said the united labor policy committee (ULPC) voted acceptance. The agreement was reached after weeks of intensive efforts by Stabilization Director Eric Johnston set off when the ULPC pulled its three men out of the wage board and ordered all its labor representatives out of mobilization posts.

The ULPC, which represents the AFL, CIO and some other labor organizations, acted in protest against a wage board decision stabilizing wages at not more than 10 percent above levels of Jan. 15, 1950.

Measles Reach Epidemic Stage

Little Rock, March 14 — (AP) — The Arkansas state board of health reported today measles has reached possible epidemic proportions in at least one county in the state.

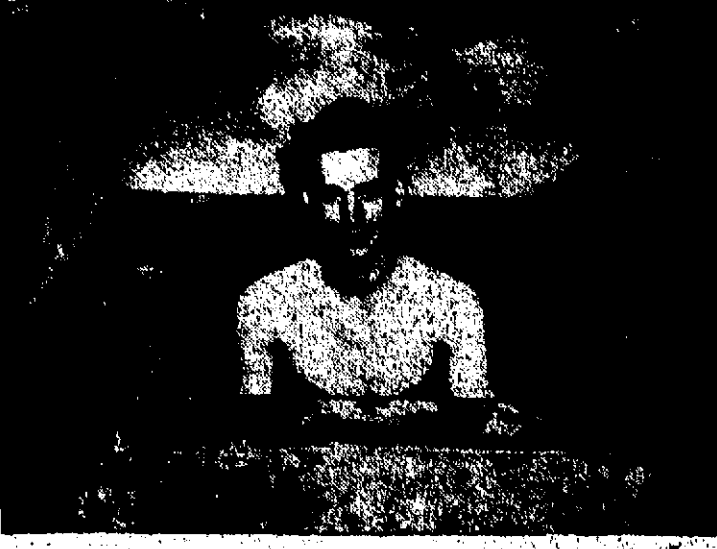

For the week ended March 10, 812 cases were reported in the state, the board said. There were 273 cases the previous week.

Of the 812 cases, 500 of them were reported in Stone county.

Since Stone county is listed with next to the lowest county population in the state with a 1950 figure of 7,641, the large number of measles cases indicates one out of every 15 persons in the county had measles.

Since the first of the year, 2,527 cases have been reported in the state. Only 172 cases were reported in the corresponding period a year ago.

Figures listed for other diseases showed a marked decrease in influenza with a drop of 189 cases last week. Only 414 cases were reported, compared to 813 the week before. The year's total to date is 4,731.

DOROTHY DIX Old Maid

Dear Miss Dix: Is it a disgrace to be an old maid? Can an old maid be as great a woman and as much admired as her married sister?

Answer: Your question, Estelle, sounds like something that you had fished out of the hair-trunk in the attic. I didn't suppose that anybody nowadays even dreamed of its teasing any reflection upon a woman's character or even upon her attractiveness for her not to marry.

In former times, when marriage was about the only grateful occupation open to women and when every woman's livelihood and position in society depended upon her attracting a husband, naturally every girl married who could. Hence, for a woman to be an old maid led to the natural supposition that she was in some way inferior to her sisters, or else she would not have been passed over.

Times Have Changed

But, thank goodness, times have changed for women. They do not have to marry now for a meal ticket. They can go out and earn their own bread and butter. And if she knows nothing of the affair, leave her her peace and happiness as long as you can. She will have long enough to endure her heartbreak.

And if, as I strongly suspect, she already knows and her pretense of ignorance is just a bluff to save her face, pay her courage and gallantry the tribute of respecting it. There are no women braver or more to be admired than those who suffer from the humiliation they endure from unfaithful husbands in secret, and who keep up the fiction of being happy and contented wives in order to keep their homes together and to keep their children from knowing of the kind of man their father is.

Dear Miss Dix: The other day I told my mother I would like to do something great in the world and have a career. She said the best career a girl could have would be to be a wonderful wife and the mother of fine sons who would do something great. Which career shall I choose?

Answer: You can't choose to have a greater career. That is as "Fate" will and depends on the Gifts God gave you. Neither can you decide that you will be the mother of genius. That is also luck. But, generally speaking, I think women are happier who follow woman's predilection career of wifehood and motherhood.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We have a very good friend whose husband is going with a married woman. We have hesitated to tell her about it as we did not wish to hurt her or humiliate her by letting her know that it is common but we feel that someone who loves her should tell her. This man has always been a philanderer, and we thought this would be just like his other affairs with women, and not last. But it seems to be very serious as he and the woman are together at every possible chance and appear to be very much in love. We feel that something should be done before it ends in disaster for both families. What should we do?

Answer: Keep silent and keep your hands out of the mess. No good yet has ever been accomplished by meddling in an illicit love affair. There is nothing you can say to a married man and a married woman who are indulging in liaison that they do not already know.

And do not be cruel enough to tell the wife about her husband's unfaithfulness. There is nothing she can do to make him loyal and stop him from roaming. And if she knows nothing of the affair, leave her her peace and happiness as long as you can. She will have long enough to endure her heartbreak.

Coalition to Try to Beat Plan for RFC

Washington, March 14 — (AP) — A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats mustered forces in the house today to try to beat down President Truman's proposal to re-vamp the reconstruction finance corporation (RFC).

By defeating another administration reorganization measure yesterday, the coalition demonstrated convincingly it can control the house, at least on many domestic issues.

Administration leaders conceded to newsmen that big trouble loomed for Mr. Truman's plan to abolish the five-man board of directors which runs the controversial RFC and replace it with a single administrator.

Defeat for this reorganization plan would pave the way for a Republican move to a bolshoi multi-billion dollar government lending agency entirely. The house GOP policy committee went on record as urging that action yesterday.

Increasing demand for its liquidation came from members of both parties in both the senate and house.

At the same time, bitter words were exchanged over a charge by Rep. Wayne L. Hayes (D-Ohio) that Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson had done some "influence peddling" in connection with RFC loans. Gabrielson angrily denied it. He called Hayes' assertion, made in a house speech, an "unmitigated lie" and a "deliberate smear."

Hayes also said he would name on a broadcast last night two senators as having put pressure on RFC to make loans for a firm. Gabrielson was formerly connected with. When the time came, however, he did not name them. He said two senators contacted him about his statement.

"Senator Bricker of Ohio called me on the telephone and implied that if I stated he had had anything to do with the Gabrielson loans he would sue me for libel," Hayes said on the Mutual Network broadcast.

"Senator Capehart of Indiana contacted me on the floor of the house and talked to me personally, and exactly what he was driving at was not clear to me, except that he told me he was not connected with the Capehart Music company."

Hayes noted that Bricker and Capehart are Republican members of the senate banking subcommittee which has been inquiring into RFC operations, and he added: "I hope their libel suits in making public the names of those who put definite influence to get this loan for Gabrielson."

Capehart told a reporter he doesn't know what Hayes was talking about. He added he would insist that Hayes appear before the subcommittee and give it any information he was.

But that wasn't the fidgety, tell-vision-why Costello's only dilemma as he faced a second day of grilling by Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) and his colleagues.

A perjury charge also loomed for the Italian-born gambler. Committee Counsel Rudolph Halley said last night that the senators "undoubtedly" would ascertain "whether the many misstatements and contradictions of Costello have the element of perjury."

Costello also faced continued questioning about his alleged role as head of a national crime syndicate, a role he denies. The senators yesterday produced seven wire taps of telephone conversations during which Costello was addressed as "boss" and "chief."

Costello's testimony involved his financial interest in the Beverly

Any idea which Moscow may have had of overthrowing Western Europe has had to be revised. The position now is that we can say with considerable confidence that the Moscovites don't want war in Europe.

The Red program appears to be to hold the present line across Europe while exploiting Red successes in Asia as much as possible. The Asiatic strategy makes Red China the military goal of communism, while Russia still is able to remain in the background and protect her strength by possible armistices to Moscow.

Under this scheme, the communists are to use the Red army to conquer Asia and then to use the Red army to conquer Europe. The Red army is to be used to conquer Asia and then to use the Red army to conquer Europe.

I had heard so many stories about the functional middle-age period peculiar to women—I hoped I'd escape such symptoms. But I didn't. I found myself terribly embarrassed by hot flushes—I suffered such restless nights, and I could sense myself getting irritable and cranky—due to this cause.

My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. I can understand now why he called it "the woman's friend." Pinkham's Compound gives me amazing relief. I find if I take it regularly—once a day—it helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound is sold in a bottle from which you can get a free booklet, "The Women's Friend," and a free trial bottle.

MEASLES REACH EPIDEMIC STAGE

Little Rock, March 14 — (AP) — The Arkansas state board of health reported today measles has reached possible epidemic proportions in at least one county in the state.

For the week ended March 10, 812 cases were reported in the state, the board said. There were 273 cases the previous week.

Of the 812 cases, 500 of them were reported in Stone county.

Since Stone county is listed with next to the lowest county population in the state with a 1950 figure of 7,641, the large number of measles cases indicates one out of every 15 persons in the county had measles.

Since the first of the year, 2,527 cases have been reported in the state. Only 172 cases were reported in the corresponding period a year ago.

Figures listed for other diseases showed a marked decrease in influenza with a drop of 189 cases last week. Only 414 cases were reported, compared to 813 the week before. The year's total to date is 4,731.

The 171 chickenpox cases reported last week more than doubled the 87 cases during the previous week.

Mumps totaled 113 cases last week, a rise of 17 over the number reported the week before.

Eisenhower's Belief That America Can Handle Russia in a War Is Encouraging

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

It certainly bolsters confidence to hear from a commander-in-chief who has led his conquering armies across Western Europe that America could defeat Russia if war came.

The way General Eisenhower put it to the senate foreign relations committee during his recent examination was that "our enlightened 180,000,000 backward people" in Russia if war comes. He also declared that with sufficient air and sea support, 12 American divisions could hold the Breton peninsula of southern west France against the Russians.

General Ike apparently bases these estimates not only on Western military strength but also on the Soviet Union's internal weaknesses.

war the Red satellites will turn against Moscow.

He declared that "disident elements all the way from the Balkans right up to the Baltic" will rise.

That is a likelihood which this column has been hammering on for a long time as one of the most important aspects of the continuing crisis. There can be no doubt that the disaffection now apparent among the satellites weighs heavily with Russia's plans.

These satellites not only have been Russia's bulwark across eastern and central Europe, but Moscow originally looked to them as sources of supplies and manpower. These expectations have been shattered.

General Ike apparently bases these estimates not only on Western military strength but also on the Soviet Union's internal weaknesses.

Hunting Is Fun Again

Construction of a new hunting lodge is well advanced at the Hope Hotel.

The lodge will be a two-story building with a large dining room and a bar. It will be a perfect place for a hunting party.
